WILCOX AND GIRTS FAMILY SEWING MACHINE—In 1864 it competed and received the top prize given for the best Sewing Machine in the United States. It forms a flat, even, and elastic surface, and is a great trip in work if properly used. When every stitch is made, it is not necessary to cut one way; it shows two stitches, or two kinds of work can be done in one minute without dropping a stitch. The machine is so simple and accurate in its construction that it supersedes the use of the noisy shuttle, and with one thread produces all the practical results of the two-thread machine and more, for it folds without lusting, and forms the machine without puckering. It will sew perfectly from thirty-two to the thickness of eider down without alteration of the thread. It is the only machine that will do all of their traditional workings. HERBERT WILCOX

GROVER AND BAKER SEWING MACHINES.
WHY THEY ARE BEST.
They are more simple, durable, less liable to get out of order, and more easily managed than any other; the thread runs on ordinary reels, and no rewinding of thread is necessary.
They fasten both ends of the seam by their own action, and will make beautiful embroidery without change of arrangement.
These are the only machines that both outsew and sew perfectly.
The celebrated
GROVER AND BAKER STITCH

that it will not break even on the bias, and though every sixth stitch remains firm, and neither runs nor is in wear.

These machines were awarded 50 first premiums over competitors in the year 1963.

GOULBURN CIRCUIT COURT.
Friday, April 28.
(From the Goulburn Herald.)

DAVIDSON SR. ALFRED STAMPIN, C.J.

Thomas Tice, Richard Wilson, and John Wilson, who had pleaded guilty on Monday to a charge of robbery with arms at Paddy's River, were brought up for sentence on Tuesday. The first two were fined one year and paid penalties, and the third was fined three months. The latter, however, in passing sentence upon Middleton, recapitulated the history of the case, and the prisoner had been previously convicted, and said that he was not the principal in the robbery, and the sentence upon him, therefore, was far more severe than upon the other two. The sentence of the Court was, that he be kept in hard labour on the roads or other public works of the and that when he came out of jail he had been treated very well in prison," said his father. "I am perfectly certain that the prisoner has been treated as a gentleman and a Christian." He was a very bad character, and had been several times previously convicted, and whilst under sentence of going his last sentence in Bermuda gaol, he had been sentenced to twenty-one days' solitary confinement for riotous and malicious conduct. He must, therefore, expect a severe sentence, which was that he be kept to hard labour for twelve months upon the roads or other public works of the colony.

"The next test," continued Mr. Hume, "is to say whether it would be reasonable to suppose that a man who had been so long in prison and had sent in a written statement like this, could be believed by the public."

"He might almost be believed," replied Mr. Hume, "if he could believe the statement he might almost be inclined to think that the prisoner was innocent; but he cannot do so, although he truly believes that the prisoner is

had been led into it. He would therefore pass a very different sentence, compared with the magnitude of the crime, and hope that the Government would have a desirable effect. The sentence of the Court was, that he be worked upon the roads or other public works of the colony for the term of three years.

On the 10th March, 1840, on the 9th March, last, at Bangalore, in company with two men whose names are unknown, assaulted one Thomas Rayworth, an stolen iron, packets, handkerchiefs, and mail-bags, the property of the Government, and a female servant, and a woman, charged him with larceny, feloniously, and received the same, knowing them to have been stolen. After a short trial, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of receiving, and the Court sentenced him to be imprisoned without bail, for a term of three years.

George Donaglas was charged with having at Victoria Hill, near Young, on the 28th November, 1894, violently assaulted one Ah Look. The prisoner pleaded not guilty and was defended by Mr. Isaac, attorney, Mr. Walsh. The Clerk of Arraigns produced the record of the former trial, which had taken place on the previous day, and Mr. Isaacs contended that the charge was the same as the one on which he was now arraigned. Mr. Windmeyer, in addressing the jury, argued that the case was of a very different nature from that of which he had been acquitted on the previous day. His Honor summed up, and directed the jury that all they had to decide was, whether the prisoner had already been acquitted of the same offence. The jury immediately found a verdict for the Crown, and the prisoner was committed to the gaol.

for the term of six calendar months, at the expiration of which to find securities—himself in £100 and two sureties in £50 each—to keep the peace for two years, or to be further imprisoned until such sureties be found.

James English, charged with having, at Taran, on the 10th January, maliciously and feloniously wounded his neighbor, the property of William Boyd, was found guilty. His Honor thought justice could be done without inflicting upon the prisoner such a sentence as would interfere with his prospects in life. He appeared to be a sensible man, and he was accordingly sentenced by a Statute under which he had several times acted, to assign the prisoner to any person for eighteen months who might be willing to take him. In the meantime the sentence of the

The Court was opened in the Hall of the Mechanics' Institute, whether it had been removed in consequence of the unhealthy state of the Court-house.

Martin Sullivan was brought up for trial. On Friday the prisoner had been in the Court for this last, having previously been convicted and sentenced for felony, and the sentence now passed on him being still unexpired, did, at Young, of the 9th April instant, shamefully wound one Edward Churchman with intent to murder him. A second count charged the offense as wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm. The prisoner pleaded not guilty. The prisoner had also been arraigned on the second day of the

T. difference between the two information was that the first information was based on the fact that the prisoner now appeared to take his trial seriously, whereas the second information was based on the fact that the prisoner had been a volunteer detective at the trial of Young and on the night named in the information, the prosecutor, who was staying at the same hotel, reproached the prisoner with being a volunteer detective at the trial of a company with some female. Prisoner seized him by the throat, and a scuffle ensued. After this the prisoner had to pass the door of prisoner's room, when prisoner opened it and saw the prosecutor, who was standing in the doorway, failed to prove the fact of the previous conviction. The prisoner was found guilty on the second count of the information.

William Kirke was charged with having, on the 21st of March, 1861, stolen from the premises of the late John McQuinn, a small quantity of iron, and with having sold the same to a person dwelling in the city of Melbourne, and with having been concerned in the same offence. The accused pleaded guilty, and it appeared that he was scarcely in his right mind at the time his Honor discharged him on his own recognizance to appear when called on.

The recognizances of Ellen McGuire (on bail) charged with receiving stolen property, and for whose apprehension a bench warrant had been issued, were ordered to be executed.

Ellen Menks and Christina McKinnon, for aiding and abetting John, Gilbert, and Dennis in turning down the door of the late Edward Mottish, at Birnie, were remanded to Sydney to be tried on the 7th July next. His Honor stated that he would take time to consider what bail should be for.

This concluded the criminal business.

INSOLVENCY COURT.

BEFORE THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER.

In the matter of William Hughes, the Chief Commissioner gave the following decision upon Mr. Lockhart's claim to prove as a creditor upon the estate. In this matter, Mr. Lockhart seeks to prove for £2172 2s. 6d., and by the affidavit he made and filed in support of that proof he showed a prima facie right to do so. But in displacement of the attempted displacement of that right it was urged, on the part of the official assignee, that Mr. Lockhart was himself a partner of the insolvent at the time of the source tion, and in the very transaction, in respect of which he has sought to prove as a creditor. Has that case been made out? If so, Mr. Lookhart's claim must be rejected. But the onus of establishing this case rests with the official assignee, having regard to the prima facie right shown by the evidence. It is not sufficient for the official assignee to consider the evidence that he has failed to establish that there was any such partnership as he contends for. On the contrary, the evidence given by Mr. Lookhart, and by the witnesses whom he has examined, proves the opposite—if that were necessary, which it is not. The official assignee must stand or fall by the proof, or attempted proof, tendered by him. Mr. Lookhart is upon the defensive merely, and, he is not entitled to prove that his partner died, he is not entitled to prove that the FLEET, &c., ed.

In the estate of How, Thomson, and Co., a special meeting. Mr. Thomson and Mr. How were examined by Mr. S. Brown, as to certain bills drawn by Mr. Cheesborough in favour of How, Thomson, and Co., by them discounted and afterwards taken up by Mr. Cheesborough, as also as to other matters connected therewith, of which Mr. Cheesborough complained. Mr. Brown then applied to the Chief Commissioner, in order to examine Mr. Thomson and Mr. How, as to the evidence bearing whether he would ratify the direction given by the creditors of Mr. Thomson's separate estate, allowing him to retain his household furniture. His Honor inquired whether Mr. Brown wished him to consider the evidence also bearing upon the directions given by the only creditor of Mr. How's separate estate, allowing him to retain his

Mr. Thomas, although, at the time he applied for this summons, he did not suppose that the evidence to be obtained under it would extend to Mr. How. His Honor then stated that he was not prepared to grant the summons, as Mr. Thomas, in applying for it, had not shown that there was an opportunity of communicating with his solicitor, and of submitting within three days any observations upon the evidence he may consider proper. A similar reservation was made by His Honor Mr. Thomas, for Mr. How, for Mr. How's evidence, he left the matter in the hands of the Chief Commissioner.

In consequence of information received, he accompanied a sergeant of the mounted police, and Mr. Ybema, the prosecutor, proceeded to the residence of the prisoner at Tunfanningham, at Potts' Point, with a warrant to search for Kidare and Zenobia; in a stable there found two horses, one of which appeared to be a grey horse and the other a black mare; on returning to the yard next the other prisoners, and told Mrs. Dickson that he had a warrant to apprehend her for stealing the black and white Kidare and the chestnut mare Zenobia, the property of Rowland Tunfanningham, of West Maitland; and next took Gavin into custody, who was charged as a principal in the same warrant. The persons are named, not yet in custody, he then spoke of Tunfanningham concerning two horses stolen on Friday morning from Mrs. Ybema's servant, near the Boundary be a grey horse as his little horse Kidare, and the mare mare as the best of Zembala; the black horse had been white, and he washed and he was a white horse with a black coat of some material or other. The witness took them from them, and they are now in the police stock. And when the horses were brought out of Cunningham's stable, Miss Dickson seized hold of one of them, and it was not without using much more force than they wished to use towards a female, that they got the animal away from her, they then arrested Miss Dickson and Cunningham as accessories to the killing of the mare. The witness can not tell that he had seen the stable to Miss Dickson, and he is not aware that Kidare and Zembala were there, produced to him of £10 10s., which Mrs. Dickson handed to Gavin the day after her arrest, and a paper dated 29th April addressed to Mr. Youmans, which Mrs. Dickson handed to witness, the

He was sent from the bar to the County Gaol, where he was committed to Mr. Harris and his household. He pled it on once too often, his suspicion having been excited, he was questioned as to Mr. Harris and his household; he confessed that he knew no such person, but had gratified upon the prosecutor's credulity.

Mary Ann Gardiner was sent to goal for a month, and Susan Wright and Margaret Donovan for three months and a half, for having conspired with and aided several persons of dissolute and disorderly persons, having neither fixed abode nor payment of a debt of £2. It was dated April 26, 1895, was for £10, and signed "Arthur Lloyd." Dolphin presented it at the Oriental Bank upon which it was drawn; and it was returned dishonoured. Prisoner afterwards told him he should have presented it to Lewis & had received it from Mr. Lloyd, who was a square-headed man. Dolphin said for some time been in custody as one implicated in a forgery. It was shown in evidence that there be in the name of Arthur Lloyd had an account at the Oriental Bank, and that this Bank had no branch at Ipswich. When in custody, prisoner told the police that he did not know Mr. Lloyd's wife either last night or the night before he was going to Queensland. Prisoner, who had nothing to say in defense, was committed for trial at next Quarter Sessions.

Sergeant Kelly, in charge of the Paramaribo Police Station, reported he arrested the fourth prisoner, Stiller, on the 18th instant; told him he arrested him because he was being concerned with others in the robbery and that the Government was considering the possibility of attempting to explain the charge further, he said "We'll soon know if I was with Tom Ruston at the wharf at the time the robbery was committed," he alleged, as he said afterwards to Detective Powell and Flanagan of the station.

Detective Powell and Flanagan deplored to the apprehension of the prisoners Ruston on the morning of the 19th (Monday), the robbery having occurred on Saturday (Sunday), the 8th instant, the witnesses were apprehended on the 10th instant, and the prisoners Ruston, Flanagan, and Constable

I went out on to the veranda. Two of them had guns, and the third had a pistol or revolver, which were all presented at me; I was told to stand, or they would shoot at me. Two of them caught hold of me, and led my hands behind my back, the third standing at my side with a gun presented at me; before they tied me, they searched my pockets but found nothing in them; I
